College Abilities

Clark College has identified six college-wide abilities that help students apply what they learn. The core abilities are taught across the curriculum and students continually practice and improve their skills in the six areas.

Communication

The ability to understand and deliver written, spoken and visual communication clearly and accurately.

Critical Thinking/Problem Solving

The ability to formulate, evaluate and synthesize facts, data, ideas, assumptions, values and points of view.

Effective Citizenship

The ability to identify community issues; evaluate and respect various opinions and values; and articulate one's own perspective.

Global/Multicultural Perspectives

The ability to identify, analyze and demonstrate how culture shapes world perceptions, values and behaviors.

Lifelong Learning

The ability to set and revise goals, access resources and assume responsibility for one's own learning.

Information/Technology

The ability to identify resources; retrieve and manage data; interpret, evaluate and use information; and adapt to changing technologies.

Clark College does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, sex, disability, age, religion, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, creed, disabled veteran status, marital status or Vietnam-era veteran status in its programs and activities. The following person has been designated to handle inquiries regarding the non-discrimination policies:

- Learn the fundamentals of art before transferring to a college, university or art school
- Two-year transfer programs

Art - Photography

The Clark College Art Department offers many classes to help you prepare for advanced studies at a four-year institution, enter an art profession directly or simply enrich your spirit. Clark's Art faculty is composed of a complementary blend of highly qualified instructors possessing advanced degrees as well as recognized working professionals who bring with them the practical knowledge of the art marketplace.

The creative talents of artists have always been in demand by a wide range of professions. Though the computer is a dynamic new tool for the artist, a good foundation in drawing and design remain essential no matter the choice of medium.
