

Clark's Flynn, Razavi top student-athletes

Penguins awards for November announced

College Notebook

By TIM PYLE
Columbian staff writer

Perhaps the most dependable performers on their respective Clark College basketball teams, Josias Flynn and Maryam Razavi also are consistent achievers in classrooms.

Excellence in both arenas led to the duo being named Clark's Les Schwab Student Athletes of the Month for November, as announced last week.

Flynn, a 6-foot sophomore guard from Stadium High in Tacoma, is a co-captain for the men.

Entering Wednesday night's game against Highline, he was averaging 12.2 points, 2.2 assists and 2.0 rebounds a contest.

He was shooting 42.3 percent from the field, including 41.0 percent from 3-point range, and a team-best 88.4 percent at the free-throw line.

Flynn also boasts a 3.77 grade-point average.

Razavi, a 5-11 freshman forward out of Tualatin, Ore., has been the Penguin women's most versatile player.

Heading into Wednesday's action, she was averaging 11.4 points, 6.9 rebounds, 2.4 steals and 1.3 rebounds per game.

Razavi had a 4.0 GPA in her first quarter at Clark.

Josias Flynn

Maryam Razavi