The Clark College Jazz Ensemble's latest big band jazz concert will feature the Falconsaires Jazz Ensemble from the Air Force Academy Band, which performs a mix of traditional and contemporary big band jazz. The free concert is at 7 p.m. Nov. 19 at Clark College's Gaiser Hall Student Center, 1933 Fort Vancouver Way, Vancouver. Advance ticket reservations are encouraged due to limited seating; tickets may be picked up in Office 116 in the Music Building at Clark College. Tickets will be limited to four per request. On the night of the concert, doors will open at 6 p.m. for ticket-holders and to the general public at 6:45 p.m. Call 360-992-2662 or visit clark.edu.

Magenta Improv Theater returns to comedy set at 6:30 p.m. Nov. 20. The show, called "Anyway?" The show is at MacArt MacArthur Blvd., Vancouver. The show is free and canned food items will be accepted.

Visitors can see what historic Fort Vancouver was like in the past, taking a lantern-lit tour. Each adult, counting house, fur store, kitchen, as visitors see what it was like to live in the fort. The tour is from 7-8 p.m. Nov. 19, 20 and 21. Admission is $10, and $7 for children 15 and younger. nps.gov/fova.

The MarchFourth Marching Band is a show that includes stilt-walkers, fire dancers, and acrobatics, will take the stage Nov. 20 at Refuge, 116 S.E. Yamhill St., Portland. The show is from 8-11 p.m. Nov. 20. Tickets are $18, but they are $10-$12 for all ages, and the 9 p.m. show is free for children 4 and younger. Tix are available online or in person at Brown Paper Tickets, 800-838-3006 or visit marchfourthmarchingband.com.

Mike Rangner is showcasing oil paintings at Art on the Boulevard in Vancouver. Rangner works to capture the beauty of everyday moments. He paints scenes such as streams, Pacific Northwest fields, the Pacific Ocean and urban streets. The exhibit is on display through Nov. 27. The gallery is open 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesdays through Saturdays at 210 W. Evergreen Blvd., Suite 300, Vancouver. Call 360-750-4499 or visit artontheboulevard.org.