- At the American Association of Community College's Pathways 2.0 Institute #2 conference in Scottsdale, Arizona, the point was made in a variety of ways that college needs to partner with agencies and resources throughout the community to connect students with resources they need to reduce housing and food insecurity, reduce out-of-pocket childcare expenses, and other non-educational related expenses that create stress and barriers for students to succeed. When a student is on a guided pathway, they will have an educational plan, career plan, and financial plan.
