

VANCOUVER

Clark College to host health careers job fair

Demand for health care workers is projected to increase during this decade, one reason Clark College will host a Health Careers Job Fair on June 1.

Free and open to all students and community members, the event runs 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. in Clark's Gaiser Student Center, at 1933 Fort Vancouver Way.

No registration is required. Clark College's career services director said visitors will have the chance to network with area employers in a relaxed but professional environment, and ask questions about current jobs and future openings.

"We are encouraging guests to bring résumés and dress for success since they'll be meeting with potential employers," said Edie Blakley.

A list of participants continues to grow; companies currently scheduled to attend include Carolee's at Ridgefield, Cascade Park Care Center, Free Clinic of Southwest Washington, Kool Smiles, Net Rx, Northwest Natural Products, Prestige Care, Southwest Medical Group, Synergy Home Care and Vancouver Radiologists.

For updates: http://www.clark.edu/student\_services/employment/fair.php or call 360-992-2902.