

Today's Editor
GORDON OLIVER

gordon.oliver@columbian.com

Monday, Aug. 27, 2012

People

Rekah Strong, Clark County's chief diversity and inclusion officer, has been appointed to the Clark College Board of Trustees by Gov. Chris Gregoire. A Camas resident, Strong attended Clark College and transferred to Portland State University, where she earned a bachelor's degree in criminal justice and a master's degree in social work. She currently is pursuing a Ph.D. in social work at Portland State.

STRONG