

Clark men advance to tournament final

Penguins will face Clackamas today for the championship

From staff and wire reports

The Clark College men's team advanced to the championship game of an NWAACC Crossover Tournament with a 74-71 victory Saturday against Columbia Basin.

The host Penguins will face Clackamas at 4 p.m. today at O'Connell Sports Center. Clackamas defeated Whatcom 83-71 in Saturday's other semifinal.

Brigham Young 91, Eastern Washington 34 — The Eagles went more than 10 minutes without scoring and fell behind 33-2.

Eastern's Mark Dunn scored the first basket just 46 seconds into the game, but the Eagles didn't score again for a span of 10:20 until 8:54 remained in the first half. In the meantime, Eastern missed 13 shots and had seven turnovers as the Cougars went on a 33-0 run.
