Holiday Baskets featuring Fort Vancouver, Officers Row, Vancouver Barracks, Pearson Air Museum now available from the Historic Reserve

For the first time ever, holiday shoppers can purchase themed gift baskets featuring Vancouver history, Fort Vancouver, Officers Row, Pearson Air Museum, Vancouver Barracks and more. Some baskets feature local products by local artists and artisans. All baskets are discounted 20 percent from what the items would cost if purchased individually.

Baskets are available at the Historic Reserve Bookstore inside the Visitor Center, 1501 E. Evergreen Boulevard. Aviation-themed baskets also are available at The Museum Shop at Pearson Air Museum, 1115 E. Fifth Street. Both shops are located on the Historic Reserve and are managed by the Vancouver National Historic Reserve Trust.

"These gifts represent our region in a unique way and are meaningful mementos for out-of-town visitors," said Dorine Bishara, assistant retail manager at Vancouver National Historic Reserve Trust. "We encourage people to shop locally, purchase Northwest products and avoid mall crowds while supporting Fort Vancouver, the only national park in the Vancouver-Portland metro area and supporting the

Clark College Phoenix earns top honors

Phoenix, the student art and literary magazine of Clark College, has been named the best college literary art magazine in the country by the American Scholastic Press Association (ASPA). This is the first time that

Phoenix has received the top award in its category (junior/community colleges with enrollment of more than 2501 students).

In their message to the college, ASPA officials noted that Phoenix scored 975 points out of a possible 1000 and noted that the magazine “shows the efforts of talented and creative editors, writers, artists, photographers, layout designers, staff members and advisors.”

Dr. Rita Carey, English professor, is the literary advisor to the Phoenix staff. Dr. Carey said, “These awards testify to the talent of our students. From the student staff to the students whose literature and art was featured in the 2008 issue of Phoenix, Clark students once again demonstrated their commitment to excellence in the fine arts.”

Dr. Carey noted that the 2009 edition, which will be issued during Clark College’s 75th anniversary year, will mark the 45th year of Phoenix. The publication was originally called The Egg. Sixteen editions of The Egg were published. This will be the 29th edition of Phoenix. The 2008 Phoenix is available on the Clark College Web site at http://www.clark.edu/student\_services/phoenix/2008Phoenix.pdf

Art professor Kathrena Halsinger, art advisor to the Phoenix staff, said, “I am so honored to be a part of this program and to have the generous support of so many people across the college.” Halsinger noted that Phoenix “is truly a team effort that begins with our talented students, who are so ably mentored and encouraged by our Art and English faculty and staff, supported and financed by the Associated Students of Clark College, and cheered on by our administration.” Halsinger specifically cited the work done by Martha Lewis, who served as Art Advisor for the 2008 issue of Phoenix, graphic editor Mary Kate Carmichael and “all the rest of the wonderful, hard-working student staff.”

Phoenix is funded by the Associated Students at Clark College. Flat art work, photographs of three-dimensional work, poetry, and prose are all considered for publication. The deadline for literary submissions for the 2009 Phoenix is January 13. The deadline for visual art submissions is February 4. The 2009 publication will be unveiled in early May.
